St. Louis, Saturday, July 7, 1999.

There was little demand for produce to-day, as the commission needs excursion took buyers off the street, and the market was duller than usual on Saturday. Receipts were fairly heavy, but although trading was light, prices were generally well sustained.

Futatoes were in good demand and the market steady, as receipts were light and generally of good quality. Boat receipts were especially light.

Onlong were quiet, but firm, as offerings were light and there was a fair shipping demand.
Cubbage was dull but steady. Shippers were out of the market for the day, and local buying was light.

Tematoes were quiet but steady, as receipts were lighter and generally of seed on the lighter and generally of seed on the lighter were lighter and generally of seed on the light and the lighter and generally of seed on the lighter an ferinas were light and the market was well cleaned up.

Wool was dull. There was a fair demand for clear combing, which was steady, but other grades were duit and weak.
Hides were quiet and steady at unchanged prices. Offerings were light, but ample for the demand. Choice fresh stock sold at Tage, loss off. Receipts at St. Louis to-day were £58 cases and shipnients 2506 cases.

Butter—The market was quiet but firm on all grades, with offerings light and barely equal to the demand. Creanery—Extra 18c; firsts 10c, seconds 16c. Pairy—Extra 15c, firsts 10c, small quantities could only be bought at a considerable advance over these prices.

MET DEATH AT A RAILROAD CROSSING.

George Schoening and William Grobe Killed and Fred Fiege Injured at Columbia, Ill.

Had Reached the Track When a B. & O. Passenger Train Bore Down on Them-Horse Killed Outright.

tracks in a buggy at Columbia, Ill., last evening George Schoening and William Grob, both of Columbia, were run down by a passenger train and fatally injured. Fred Fiege, who accompanied them, sustained a fractured skuli. His recovery is consid-ered doubtful.

Schoening is the 21-year-old son of Miller Edward Schoening, well known on the East Side. Grob and Flege are barbers.

men hired a rig and proceeded to Millstadt. where they passed the day. After supper they started for home, About 7 o'clock they neared Columbia. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad crossing there is approached the lookout until the track is reached. The party failed to see an approaching northbound passenger train until it was within a few yards of them. An attempt to stop suddenly caused the horse they were driv-ing to be struck squarely by the locomotive. The rig was demolished and the three occupants caught and dragged until En-gineer Lett could stop the train. Schoening and Grob were found to be in a dying condition, while Fiege was un-conscious from a fractured skull. They were removed to the Columbia Depot near by, where Doctors Nixen and Rose rendered medical attention. Edward Schoening, father of George Edward Schoening, father of George Schoening, was overcome by grief when he viewed the mangled body of his son. The injured men were taken to their respective homes, where Schoening and Grob died a short time afterward.

The B. & O. train reached East St. Louis at 7:39 o'clock, Conductor Keefe and Engineer Tett in charge. Engineer Tett claimed to have stopped the train as soon as he could and said that the buggy was already upon the tracks and a collision was inevitable. The horse attached to the vehicle was killed.

Commissioner of School Buildings President entered the church and the two women continued their drive.

At the conclusion of the service the President walked to his home, halted several places by those who wanted to shake hands. Another drive was taken towards evening and then the President, Mrs. McKinley. Secretary Cortelyou and Doctor Rixey went to the home of Judge Day for dinner and to pass the evening. It was a quiet and restful day, and was marked by comparatively few calls, although some strangers in the city craved the honor of shaking the President's hand.
